

You will see that the jobs I have on there are not connected to tutoring. I have, in the past, kept my work and academics separate.

The best indicator of me being qualified to tutor is my academic history. I also think that you will find me to be a good fit for the job once you meet me.

Here's some more about me and a bit of my academic history:

I am a 3rd year junior at OSU Cascades. I am getting my Bachelors of science, majoring in American Studies, and minoring in economics. Because I am getting a BS and also majoring in a humanity, I am required to take a wide range of courses, making me proficient in most subjects. I am currently preparing to apply to law schools, and am actively studying for the notoriously difficult law school entrance exam; the LSAT.

I graduated high school in 2017 from Roosevelt High school in Portland Oregon with a GPA above a 4.0 (can't remember the exact number). In high school I was involved in numerous activities include mock trial. While in high school I received numerous academic awards. I also took mainly AP and advanced courses after my freshman year, which allowed me to gain college credit. My SAT score was a 1240. This is in the 85th percentile. I should add that I did not study for the SAT, since I was confident that my score would be enough to get into OSU Cascades.

I chose to come to OSU Cascades because of location mostly. I am an avid rock climber, and Bend seemed like the perfect place to go to school where I could still pursue climbing and be relatively close to home. Since moving here I have grown to love it. I have received some academic scholarships to attend OSU, and was also awarded an additional scholarship my freshman year for an essay I wrote. My first 2 years I took many of my general-ed classes at COCC, so that I could save money. My current GPA is a 3.81. I have attempted and completed 107 credits thus far. I have previously been nominated by the math department to apply for a tutoring position. I can show you my entire transcript if we meet, but there is no way to send it to you on here since it is locked on a school website that won't allow me to download it. I will give you a general idea of my course history here, highlighting a selection of courses that demonstrate that I am a well rounded student:

- Writing 222-COCC-Grade: A
- MicroBiology 230-COCC-Grade:B+
- Psych 202-COCC-Grade:A
- Physics 201-COCC-Grade:B+
- Micro and Macro Econ-COCC-Grade: A
- Calc 241-COCC-Grade: A
- Ethics-COCC-Grade: A
- Bio 101-OSU-Grade: A
- Trigonometry-OSU-Grade: A
- US History-OSU-Grade: A

-American Lit-OSU-Grade: A
-Political Thought-OSU-Grade: A

I have worked hard throughout my academic career, honing my reading, writing, and problem solving skills to get to where I'm at today. Along the way I have developed effective study techniques, organizational skills, and stress management. I am now at the point in my academic career where I believe I could provide valuable guidance to a new college student. If you ask my friends they will assure you that I often help them with math homework, dissecting tricky texts, and editing papers. I take satisfaction in sharing my knowledge and skills with others, and also value the opportunity to do so since I find that teaching allows me increase my mastery in a range of subjects.

Despite taking my academics very seriously, I am not boring or overly nerdy. I am skilled at pursuing my academics while enjoying an active and social life. Many would describe me as extroverted and easy going. I am friends with a wide variety of people and I have a wide range of interests. When I am not studying you can find me skateboarding, rock-climbing, fly-fishing, back-country snowboarding, reading, hanging out with friends, and the list goes on.

I hope that this has given you a good idea of me as a student and person. It would be great to grab coffee soon and get on the same page.